

As a "travelling salesman" I greatly appreciate, and enjoy, listening to XM satellite radio while travelling.

I depend on my XM radio not only for the entertainment value (VERY wide variety of music channels) but also for the news and weather services provided.

The areas that I travel in are hilly, so commercial FM and AM stations stay with me for about 30 minutes at a time before I have to search for another station to listen to.

Please consider my comments as support for the services I receive with my XM radio subscription.
